Development Documentation

This week our group set up the skeleton for our project. This involved setting up the github with our contracts, we added the makefile and all the other .h/.cpp files that were given to us, and we also added all the files needed for testing our code. Finally we completed the BFS traversal algorithm.